SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 11 .-Battling Nelson last night contracted to appear at the California Theater for one week, beginning Monday night. He will box three rounds with Bob Lundie, the Olympic Club athlete, who helped the Dane in his training. After these engagements Nelson will go East, accepting footlight engagements at all the important cities.

On account of some clerical error made in the excitement which existed after the fight, it was stated the receipts were $34,069. The fact is that Nelson, Britt, and the club divided $48,311. This means $31,402.15 for the fighters, and $16,908.85

Butterworth, the old Yale back, and Frank A. Hinkey, the famous end.

Yale will this year start out with a poor chance to duplicate the remarkably strong teams of the last four seasons. Most of the players who had been developed for the 1904 and 1903 elevens have this year left college, and Captain Shevlin will begin work on a badly broken squad. He will have to build up almost an entirely new line, to fill the places of some of the best football players Yale eyer had, it will be a hard season for Yale this year.

Of these players Yale will lose Roraback, conter; Kinney guard; Bloomer and Hogan, tackles; Rockwell, quarterback; This means that Captain Shevlin will have to develor a new center, a guard, two tackles, an end, a quarterback, and at least one back.

The sporting editor of the Philadel-phia North American says, in part: Bets made on the outcome of the Britt-Nelson fight should stand. It is hard to see how any fair-minded

Graney must have awakened to this fact, for before the fight commenced Associated Press reports credit him with reversing his decision and announcing to the newspaper men who had come into the ring to hear the men instructed that all bets stood.

No matter how the Britt man tries to figure, can he justly hold on. If Graney had a right to declare the bets off, he had the same right to put them on again. And the latter ruling, coming last, is the binding one.

But there is a better reason than that. The Dane won, fairly and squarely. That any square sport could want to hold on to this kind of money because a rattle-brained referee's error gives him a dubious technical excuse is incredible.

The racing next week will be tryns ferred to Gravesend. The stakes have s the equal of the great Sysonby, and all filled well and fine sport is assured. The present meeting at Sheepshead Bay has been successful from every view

There is a shrewd suspicion that the compact made by Messrs. Lewisohn, Smathers, and Hudson to join the pikers and bet no more than $100 on any one race will not last long. The gentlemen who have sworn off on plunging have been the vic-tims of a good deal of good-natured badinage at the track.
